New council offices shape up on schedule

'Heave ho and up she rises!' Dramatic progress now to be seen at Kett's Park as the new Town Council offices take shape

Over the last 18 months we have been covering the progress of the Town Council's plans to build and move into new offices at Kett's Park. The many advantages more than justify the move.

The present office in Middleton Street, with the Council Chamber on the first floor, presents all kinds of problems for those with limited mobility. Grounds equipment kept in the small yard behind the office building has to be moved through a one-way traffic system, and is remote from most of the main areas for which it is needed: the new site at Kett's Park will provide covered space for the equipment and a base for grounds staff.

The council has accumulated reserves which will meet more than a third of the £1.8 million cost. Savings on the lease and on the running costs of the present building will pay charges on a Public Works Loan Board facility, and it is envisaged that the project will be completed with no increase in Council Tax required from Wymondham ratepayers.

It has been exciting to watch the steel framework taking shape this summer, and this recent photo shows how the work has progressed. The project is on target and completion is expected round about Easter next year.

Robert Kett returned to Wymondham at the weekend to celebrate the 470th anniversary of his famous rebellion.

Once again, he was surrounded by hundreds of followers who all enjoyed an interactive day with medieval antics and the modern-day excitement of funfair rides, craft stalls and delicious food and drink.

Town Council News

Very good progress is being made on the new Town Council offices at Kett's Park, as you'll have seen if you have visited the council's major leisure and recreation centre recently. The Council hopes to move there from its present Middleton Street offices round about Easter next year. Less good news to report is the recent closure of the town centre post office, and the search is on for a new home for this important service. And Robert Kett returned to Wymondham recently, but this time to entertain us rather than to lead a people's revolt.

Town Post Office closes

Market Street saw some dramatic changes at the end of August as the One Stop convenience store closed, and with it the town centre Post Office. If you want to use Post Office Counters services in Wymondham you'll now need to go to the Budgens store in Lime Tree Avenue.

The Post Office is closing many local offices and as letters are replaced by text or email and we now do much of our shopping on line, with packages delivered to our door, demand for old familiar postal services is steadily declining, making traditional post offices uneconomic to run. Locating post offices in thriving business premises has been a solution for some years, but such premises are themselves becoming less viable with the rise of supermarket shopping.

Some services can only be provided by a post office, and while a more permanent solution is being sought, the Post Office is proposing to locate a mobile post office on the Market Place on Thursday afternoons. While this may be adequate as a temporary solution, it is another example of the decline of town centres which is being seen countrywide.

Tourist Information Advisor

Wymondham Town Council has an opportunity to join our small and professional Tourist Information staff.

This a permanent part-time position of flexible hours.

Salary will be scale point 3 currently £9.36 per hour.

Kett returns to Wymondham

Kett's Fun Day and Fayre, organised by South Norfolk Council, celebrated Wymondham's very own hero Robert Kett who in 1549 led a rebellion against the injustices faced by the peasants.

The Black Knight Historical performers recreated a Tudor Camp, allowing visitors to interact with characters from the 16th century and learn what life was like in this turbulent period. Robert Kett delivered the famous speech he made to the peasants before they marched on Norwich at the start of the Rebellion.

South Norfolk Cabinet member Kay Mason Billig said: "This has been a fantastic day and it's wonderful to see so many people enjoying themselves and finding out more about the history of the town. If you want to know more about what happened to Robert Kett, visit Wymondham and take our Heritage Trail."

Wymondham's Heritage Trail is a free interactive augmented reality walking tour that you can download to your smart phone. You can download the app on Google Play or the App store for free and go to the Wymondham museum to try out the seated virtual reality experience free of charge.

Community News

As is often the case with our autumn edition, we have a number of 'green' stories to bring you. Wymondham in Bloom features strongly, and we congratulate the Town Team for their coordinating achievements, and all those businesses and householders who helped to make our town look so beautiful through the summer months. Biodiversity is celebrated with an award for Wymondham Nature Group, and we are reminded of Moot Hill, a hidden scheduled Monument adjacent to Kett's Park. And you can step back in time to hear what church music would have sounded like 200 years ago.

Wymondham in Bloom - smiling faces and beautiful flowers

Wymondham in Bloom judging day in July was a marvellous marathon of smiling faces and beautiful flowers. The Town Team volunteers were overwhelmed at the community-wide support they received for this project. More than sixty of our high street businesses joined in with the campaign, along with a number of community groups and residents.

Judging day began in the morning with an expert panel of Wymondham Garden Club members closely eyeing up the town centre shop fronts. Two teams covered the long route from Yum Yum's Sweet Shop on Fairland Street all the way to Sunkissed Tanning & Beauty on Town Green. They were hugely impressed with the creativity shown, and struggled to narrow down the top ten displays to three. However, the final placings were first, The Green Dragon (also the popular choice in an on-line vote), second, Big C Charity shop and third, Star Throwers Charity shop.

In the afternoon, Wymondham's first ever Anglia in Bloom judging tour was undertaken. The tour took in the following stops:

Ashleigh School Farm: a spectacular example of how to educate nursery and primary school children about where food comes from.

Robert Kett Court: the dining area courtyard garden revamp was an incredible community collaboration involving more than 100 different people from all around Wymondham..

Kett's Park Woodland Walk: a serene forest oasis for a quiet walk right on many people's doorstep. The Greening Wymondham volunteers carefully manage

Judging in progress With over sixty entries to consider, this year's Wymondham in Bloom judges had a busy day inspecting the product of Wymondham gardeners' labours the woodland, and worked hard this year to lay down a pram and wheelchair accessible path surface.

Toll's Meadow: a sea of wildflowers only four minutes' walk from Market Place. A shining example of biodiversity in a town centre with a paved path making the meadow accessible to all.

Wymondham Town Centre: more than 60 business shop fronts, churches and residential properties were in bloom. Other highlights included Priory Gardens, the council flower planters and the War Memorial.

Becketswell: a popular green space with a lovely view of the Abbey. The well-kept path's usage was well demonstrated by Wymondham's residents of all ages, both two-legged and four.

Wymondham Abbey: not only was the building looking spectacular but so were the wildflowers, rose bushes and herb garden, lovingly tended by volunteers.

The team are already brainstorming ideas for Wymondham in Bloom 2020 so don't hesitate to get in touch if you'd like to get involved. For more information please contact: Kimberly Carsok, Coordinator of Wymondham in Bloom – wymbloom@gmail.com

Recognition sought for Moot Hill Monument

Greening Wymondham is seeking to recognise the historical importance of Moot Hill, one of three Scheduled Monuments in Wymondham, the other two being the Market Cross and the Abbey. The proposal would allow Moot Hill to feature more prominently in Wymondham's historical landscape.

Moot Hill is a medieval ringwork, oval shaped, about 150m by 130m, with an impressive bank over 3m high and a surrounding ditch, partially water-filled. It is located at Kett's Park, surrounded by the woodland near to the railway line. However it is currently privately owned and has no public access. It is overgrown and in a state of neglect

Soon after the Norman Conquest in 1066 AD, many motte and bailey castles were built by the invading Normans. Moot Hill was built by the D'Albini family between 1088 and 1139 and may be such a motte. If so, the castle was probably built of wood, as although excavations have been carried out, no trace of any buildings has yet been found. In some cases a mound built as a motte may have seen later use as a moot hill, a meeting place for people where proclamations might be read, decisions undertaken and court cases settled.

Through contact with Historic England, Greening Wymondham has been informed that the owners are in principle willing to hand all rights to a public body. Greening Wymondham have had a preliminary discussion with South Norfolk Council who have expressed support in achieving this.

As a site of national historic importance, the Greening Wymondham team feel Moot Hill needs to be brought into public ownership to allow public access, and given active management to reverse the years of neglect before it is too late.

To give support and your thoughts contact Greening Wymondham via email greening.wymondham@gmail.com or the Greening Wymondham Facebook page.

Stop Press: Wymondham are Winners of regional awards!

Wymondham is celebrating winning three awards at its very first attempt at the Anglia in Bloom regional finals held at St Ives on Tuesday 10 September.

The organising team behind the town's success, Kim Carsok, Paula Gorst and Annette James, collected award trophies for Best New Entry, Best Young People's Project (under 12s) - Ashleigh School Farm and Best Commercial Area - Wymondham High Street/Market Street. In the Biodiversity category, Toll's Meadow was a certificate winning finalist.

Overall, Wymondham achieved a Silver Gilt Award in the large town category - the second-highest level of recognition possible. "We are thrilled and genuinely surprised to have achieved this degree of success at our very first attempt. We are definitely looking forward to the challenge of going for Gold in 2020" said Town Team's Kim, the driving force behind Wymondham's entry.

"One judge told me that as newcomers we 'wiped the floor' with the standard of our entries - what an accolade for our town!" commented Annette while Paula added that "The Anglia in Bloom judges said they were extremely impressed with our town's beauty and community spirit. We hope all the wonderful community groups, volunteers and businesses who took part this year will agree that, as newcomers, we have been amazingly successful and all their hard work has paid off".

Community Biodiversity Awards for Wymondham Nature Group

Every year Norfolk Biodiversity Partnership (NBP) organises Community Biodiversity Awards to celebrate groups and individuals throughout Norfolk whose voluntary efforts have led to improvements for biodiversity across the county, and greater community engagement with local nature sites.

In the sixteenth year of these awards, Wymondham Nature Group (WyNG) was delighted to receive the Group

Award 'for their longstanding and sustained commitment to raising awareness of local wildlife in the Wymondham area'. Also cited was the Group's work in standing up for wildlife in a number of local planning applications, and involving local people in practical volunteering and wildlife recording. Representing the Group at the Awards Ceremony were Ann Roberts (Chair), Ann Carpenter (Secretary) and Bob Carpenter (Treasurer).

Roger and Jenny Jones, founder members of Wymondham Nature Group, won the Award in the 'Churchyards and Cemeteries' category for their longstanding commitment to Norfolk Wildlife Trust's Churchyard Conservation Scheme. In particular, in the past four years they have surveyed around 40 churchyards, compiling lists of species and advising on management plans to improve and maintain biodiversity in these very special areas.

Wymondham Nature Group runs a wide ranging programme of events throughout the year, including practical conservation in local nature reserves. New volunteers are always welcome and no experience is necessary.

Practical conservation (coppicing) in Lower Wood, Ashwellthorpe, a Norfolk Wildlife Trust reserve, starts again on the first Sunday in October; raking and mowing at Hethel Churchyard began in August. For more details about both sites please contact Anne Edwards on 01603 812309.

To help with practical work on the Town Council's nature reserve Tolls Meadow, Wymondham, please contact volunteer warden John Beckett 01953 602876.

WyNG's programme of talks takes place on the second Thursday of the month at 7.30pm in the Town Green Centre, Wymondham, NR18 0PW, admission £2. More details from Ann Carpenter 01508 488337. wymondham@norfolkwildlifetrust.org.uk

A musical experience from two hundred years ago!

The Norfolk West Gallery Quire is putting on a short concert in Wymondham to re-create the church music of 200 years ago. The Quire sings and plays church music from the 18th and 19th century, evoking a historic ambience by dressing in period costume and using period-style instruments.

The event takes place on Saturday 26 October at 7.15pm at the Wymondham Roman Catholic Church, 1 Norwich Road NR18 0QE. Entry is free, with a collection in aid of the Wymondham Community Kitchen. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

West Gallery Music is a form of sacred music from the 18th and early 19th centuries and was performed from specially constructed galleries at the West end of churches, by singers with frequently more enthusiasm than skill, accompanied by the village band. It is popularised in the works of Thomas Hardy, especially "Under the Greenwood Tree".

Its performance was sometimes disruptive to the service, with the congregation frequently swivelling their heads to look at the band behind them, hence the phrase "face the music". By the middle of the 19th century organs had replaced the band and the quire became today's robed choir and had to sit at the front of the church under the watchful eye of the clergy.

The music was largely forgotten until the 1980s but has been rediscovered by a new generation of musical re-enactors, and there are now quires in most parts of the UK.

Tom Herman, musical director of the Norfolk Quire said "Do come and join us at the concert to savour a musical style sometimes described as hybrid of Psalm chants and rowdy pub folk tunes!" He added that the quire, which meets fortnightly for rehearsals in Spooner Row church, is always looking for new members. "Come along and find out how we have fun!" said Tom.

For more details about the quire or the concert, please contact the quire's administrator Barbara Randall on 01953 601939.
